

Follow the three easy steps below to find your size for the perfect, comfortable fit for ladies' bracelets, ankle bracelets, and mens' bracelets.

Note: Add on .5 to 1.00 inch to allow for the clasp.

1. Print this page. Select Print from your File menu.

Important Printing Instructions:

Mac Users:

Change the drop down menu in the "print" window to Acrobat Reader. View the options. Deselect the option labeled "Shrink Oversized Pages to Paper Size."

PC Users:

When the Print Window appears, deselect the option labeled "Shrink Oversized Pages to Paper Size."

2. Cut out the ruler. Cut along the dotted lines to separate the ruler from the page.
3. Wrap it up. Simply wrap the paper ruler around your wrist or ankle where you want the bracelet to rest, and read the number where the ends overlap. This is your size.

Tips for Choosing a Comfortable Fit

If you prefer a snug, wrist-hugging fit, use the actual measured circumference of your wrist. If you like a draping, looser fit, increase your measurement by a 1/4" or 1/2" depending on your taste. Also, keep in mind that larger-link or chunky bracelets may fit more tightly than thin bracelets.

Please Note:

The whole numbers representing inches (1, 2, 3, etc.) are clearly labeled. The marks in between the whole numbers represent half inches (for example, 7 1/2"). The smaller dashes represent Quarter inches (for example, 7 3/4").
